A Temple of Serenity

Par Guillaume Huard

An elegant fusion of traditional Balinese with contemporary grandeur gives the Ylang Ylang the feel of a spiritual temple of tranquility and well-being. This residence is located in Bali, an Indonesian island paradise known for its beauty and landscapes as well as for its temperate climate and unique culture. The Ylang Ylang is characterized by a central, two storey pavilion, that consist of a kitchen, dining room, and a home theatre complete with a stocked library. The main floor also showcases a grand salon filled with day beds, coffee tables and chairs where one bask in the sea breeze as it crosses the central pavilion. The upper floor features a lounge as a well massage and spa treatment area. The pavilion opens onto the back garden and central swimming pool, which are flanked on either side by the wings that incorporate a total of six bedrooms, and an access to the beach at the end of the backyard.

The six spacious bedrooms all feature sumptuous interiors characterized by granite floors mirrors, canopied beds, artifacts, sculptures and recessed mood lighting. Each room boasts a complete bathroom. The two master bedrooms are each furnished with ensuite bathrooms fitted with walk in rainshowers and outdoor sunken baths, offering a moonlight bathing experience under a pyramid glass roof. Each of the master bedrooms features a private terrace next to the beach with its own private pool.

The pool deck is furnished with lounge chairs and a small pavilion housing a small gym. The garden leads to a timber sundeck, complete with loungers and a table shaded by the trees. The beach affords vistas across the Badung Strait to the trio of islands known as Lembongan, Ceningan and Penida that are particularly spectacular at sunrise. The garden is dotted with stone sculptures and bounded by a coconut palm trees. In each corner of the garden are two small outdoor pavilions: one designed for romantic dining and the other for relaxation and massage right next to the sea and beach. At night a romantic ambiance is created with soft lightning and firelight.
